Bethel Data Corp. says 'mission accomplished'

150 Internet customers will be transferred to CommTel

By MICHAEL DANIELS
As institutional lifespans in the Internet Age go, it had a good run.

For more than five years the non-profit Bethel Data Corp. has been providing low-cost Internet access to Bethel area computer users.

When BDC first came on line, it was the only game in town for people here wanting Internet access.

In fact, the service provided by BDC was well beyond what was then available for most towns of Bethel's size and rural situation.

But BDC's Board of Directors has concluded times have changed — Internet access is now readily, and inexpensively, available from private sector ISPs (Internet Service Providers).

And BDC has achieved the mission the original board had in mind when it was set up: 1) to bring Internet access to the town at large, and 2) to develop a market large enough to command a high level of service — and technology.

So, mission accomplished, BDC is now ready to step aside and let the private sector take over. Soon — perhaps as soon as Friday — BDC will officially turn all its customers to a commercial ISP, CommTel.

The switchover should be seamless for the customers, according to Dutch Dresser, the driving force behind BDC.

As associate headmaster of Gould Academy, Dresser oversaw the wiring of that campus in 1992. BDC essentially grew out of — and piggybacked on — that initiative.

As Internet awareness grew in the early 90s, and residents and businesses in town pressed for access, BDC stepped in to meet a need that was not then being met by the private sector.

Bridge into Mason is OK for the short haul

Residents of the Smith Road in Mason Township can sleep a bit

The Bethel selectmen indicated last week they had no immediate plans to discontinue Bethel's portion of the road, and an inspection

Bethel selectmen.

The bridge is located in Bethel, approximately half a mile west of the Flat Road, and just east of the

REMEMBERING BARBARA BROWN

To the Editor:

The death this week of Barbara D. Brown, longtime community activist and quintessential Republican, deprives the town of one of its greatest boosters. For nearly half a century, she was involved in many community issues and projects. Her house on Railroad Street was frequently the meeting place where numerous decisions that affected the life of the community in so many ways were often made.

She was inevitably the consummate hostess. Almost everyone who knew her experienced her well-honed hospitality talents. No one could have been better qualified to open a bed and breakfast than Barbara, since she genuinely liked people and loved hosting guests.

Barbara was a keen observer of people and loved so many despite all their foibles. Some she appreciated just because they had such obvious shortcomings, but greeted all with her usual warmth and compassion.

What a remarkable catalyst she was for political organizing. How often I worked with her on all kinds of political causes over the past 25 years. We were generally in full agreement regarding the direction of the Republican Party as more extremists tried to break the back of moderation. I really appreciated her numerous efforts during my years as Oxford County GOP chairman for her staunch loyalty to the principle of keeping the party on a moderate course. She and I, along with others, also led the fight to sidetrack the radical fringe from upsetting John McKernan's bid to become governor in 1986. She loved political battle and stood up for what she believed. Needless to say, we had many political adventures (and loads of laughs) through the years.

Barbara was interested in nearly everything connected with Bethel. She served on committees studying issues, worked for many causes, and emerged as an energetic agent for community activism. I well remember her strong support of the Equal Rights Amendment, where she won statewide recognition in the 1970s. The fact that ERA never became part of the U.S. Constitution was not for want of trying on Barbara's part.

We were grateful for Barbara's work at the Bethel Historical Society, where she long chaired the Membership Committee and served on the Annual Fund Committee. Here she was particularly effective in recruiting members for the society and provided us with numerous leads for attracting new volunteers. She was a great booster for the society and its work.

When one thinks of Barbara one is reminded of her love of humor, fun and lively parties. Her antics with some of her friends dressed as "bag ladies" was one of her best-remembered productions. Most conversations with Barbara contained some humor, usually lots of it. I can't help but think of her and smile as I recall all the laughs we have enjoyed through the years.

I did not always agree with her on some matters, and she lobbied hard to get me turned to her view. She never seemed to hold grudges, however, and was usually quite forgiving of those who disagreed with her on a given issue.

I also found her philosophy about money quite refreshing. Although a fiscal conservative, she never seemed to worry about spending money, particularly if she considered it essential. When husband, Mike, groused about how much the renovations on the Clark Street house were costing, she assured him they would enjoy them all when they moved there. Unfortunately, she never got to move in.

Barbara was extremely proud of her Irish heritage. Perhaps no more memorable example could be found of her Irish feistiness than the time several of us from Bethel attended the Republican State Committee meeting about 10 years ago. At that time, the committee was refusing to seat a county chair, who it believed was illegally elected. The far right extremists were agitating for his seating and were disrupting meetings of the party in protest. We walked into this session where the excluded chairman's supporters were disrupting the meeting. Upon taking in the situation, Barbara immediately removed her shoe (Khrushchev style) and started pounding the table and yelling for the intruders to leave. Her friend, Louise Lincoln, was appalled by this behavior. Becky Kendall and I were somewhat amused, but knowing her as we did were not particularly surprised. It was a vintage Barbara performance, at her best or worst, depending on one's political perspective.

A NEW PERSPECTIVE ON BETHEL VILLAGE—for the traveling public at least. Clearing work for the new garage being built Dwayne Bennett on Hudson Hill has opened a new vista, including village spires and Sparrowhawk Mountain, for drivers approaching the village on Route 26. Bennett said the garage, which is scheduled to be completed by the end of September, will be low enough that it will not block the view.

Bridge

thel residents.

The selectmen approached both the county commissioners (the Mason residents pay their property taxes to the county) and the Maine Department of Transportation about funding for the bridge repairs, but neither expressed a willingness to foot all or even part of the bill.

That stalemate—and the fear Bethel might seek to resolve it by discontinuing the Smith Farm Road—brought a half dozen Mason residents to last week's meeting of the Bethel selectmen.

The board also received letters from two Bethel taxpayers, Milton Mills and Dr. Charles M. Smith, who said they used the bridge regularly and who urged the board not to discontinue the road.

The meeting was amicable, with the selectmen indicating sympathy with the situation the Mason residents found themselves in, and a willingness to work with them toward some sort of compromise solution.

Board Chairman Dutch Dresser said discontinuing the road, "has a real appeal, but it doesn't have a humanitarian appeal to me. Personally, I would like to see the county take responsibility. ... We're trying to find a way to be responsible to the Bethel population and we're trying to find a way to help."

But Dresser and other selectmen also urged the Mason residents to take the political initiative in the matter—by pressing the county commissioners for funding, or local state legislators for a change in the law that would allow the town to transfer responsibility for the bridge to MDOT (the town missed, for unknown reasons, a chance to do this in the 1980s).

'I wouldn't hesitate to send (BFD's pumper and tanker) across the bridge.'

JIM YOUNG
Bethel Fire Chief

Ray Geiger, one of the residents at the meeting, said some of them had attended a recent meeting of the county commissioners, who agreed to at least "come up and look at the bridge."

"It seems to us, being regular folks, that a compromise would be in order," he said.

The selectmen nodded in agreement.

MDOT inspection
The residents could also take heart from a recent inspection of the bridge conducted by MDOT.

Selectman Reggie Brown noted that the discussion of discontinuing the road was prompted in large part by fear of the town's liability if the bridge were to collapse under the weight of a truck.

The state had indicated there are problems with the bridge, he said, but wouldn't say how much weight it could safely bear—"until we got this report."

The inspection report concludes the bridge currently has a "continuous use capacity" of 14 tons, and an "occasional use capacity" of 20 tons.

Town officials are still trying to learn exactly what "continuous use" and "occasional use" mean to MDOT, but the report appears to indicate nearly all of Bethel emergency-response vehicles can safely cross the bridge. (Bethel, under contract with the county, provides fire and rescue coverage for Mason township.)

Bethel's largest piece of fire-fighting equipment, the pumper-tanker, is too heavy (at 25 tons) for the bridge, but town policy already requires that the pumper-tanker be kept within town lines.

The other two large Fire Department vehicles, the pumper (15 tons) and tanker (18 tons) could safely use the bridge, said Fire Chief Jim Young.

"I wouldn't hesitate to send them across the bridge," he said.

Young also noted that oil trucks, which weigh in at approximately 18 tons, also use the bridge regularly.

"We slipped into the role of ISP almost by accident," Dresser said. "We were there because it was an important service to provide at one point."

But now the commercial sector is providing that service, and at affordable rates.

One commercial ISP, Megalink, is already well established in the area, and by selecting CommTel to take over the BDC customers, Dresser said, a degree of competition in the market will be assured.

CommTel last year took over the customers of NetExpress, a for-profit company Dresser set up to handle commercial customers here (BDC service is provided through the University of Maine, and is not available for businesses).

Dresser said his experience with CommTel has been positive.

"They were good about calling people and making sure the conversation went smoothly," he said.

The only difference BDC customers should expect, Dresser said, is a likely rate increase.

BDC was run entirely by volunteers, Dresser said. "There is nobody in our organization who received any pay for anything or ever has," he said. (With the exception of the $25 fee charged, and kept, by technicians doing customer set-ups.)

With no money being spent on salaries, Dresser said, BDC has been able to keep its rates artificially low.

He said he didn't know what CommTel planned to charge (and a call Tuesday to the CommTel representative was not returned by press time Wednesday afternoon).

But BDC's 150 customers are probably not looking at a significant increase. BDC's rates are very similar to CommTel's commercial competitor here, Megalink. BDC charged $23 a month, $60 a quarter, or $200 a year; Megalink charges $19.95 a month.

'BDC got connectivity to town early on, and now it's time for the people who profit from the business and provide the service to take over.'

Few regrets

Dresser said he had only two regrets about the BDC experience;

spotty service and the listless Bethel listserve.

Because no one on the staff was paid, and everyone had other lives and responsibilities, he said, "tech support was catch-as-catch-can. It was an embarrassment right along."

CommTel, he noted, has 24-hour a day technical support.

The listserve was intended as an e-mail forum, a place for residents to discuss issues of local interest.

It had sporadic use early on, much of it devoted to bird sightings, but has been quiet for months.

It seldom generated the "lively discussion of issues," Dresser hoped for.

"The listserve never took off," he said. "I really don't know why. Whenever an opportunity for provocative conversation came along the listserve got very quiet."

Bethel Community Network

"BDC got connectivity to town early on," Dresser said, "and now it's time for the people who profit from the business and provide the service to take over."

CommTel will take over the name "Bethel Data Corporation," but the organization will continue to exist, as the "Bethel Community Network."

Dresser said the renamed organization will "continue to experiment with the relationship between these sorts of technologies and small communities."

10 years ago: The Bethel selectmen hired the Maine Municipal Association to assist them in the search for a successor to recently resigned town manager, Rodney Lynch.

Bethel's board of selectmen granted Gould Academy permission to drain "blow down" water from its boilers into the town's sewer system. Previously "blow-down" water had been drained into Sanding Brook and Mill Brook, but the Department of Environmental Protection urged that the use of the sewer system be requested.

Briefly

Mills sentenced

BETHEL—Scott A. Mills, 35, of Bethel was sentenced in Oxford County Superior Court last week to 334 days in jail, after his probation was revoked on a domestic assault charge. Mills had already served 30 days of a 364-day sentence following a conviction in May 1999 on charges of violating a protection from abuse order and assault. In an affidavit, Mexico Patrolman Colin Campbell said Mills assaulted a woman in August of 1998, after she had obtained a protection from abuse order against him. He had been on a year's probation when he was found with Winchester 30-30 Feb. 16, in violation of probation conditions. He also violated probation by not notifying his parole officer he had been released from the custody of the U.S. Marshals Service, and by failing to make scheduled payments to the court.

Westies win title

WEST PARIS—The West Paris Westies are the 2000 Pine Tree League champions, following an 8-3 win Sunday over Lewiston. The game, the fourth in the championship series, was a completion of a suspended game began on Thursday. Colin Loveless was the winning pitcher. Gary Williamson pitched in relief and had an RBI single in the game. The top-ranked Westies won games one and three, while #2-ranked Lewiston won game two. West Paris concluded the season with a 17-3 record.

Littlefield Lane privately owned?

GREENWOOD—Littlefield Lane is a private road—and, as a result, Littlefield Beaches owner Robert Nason must pay a bill from the St. Lawrence & Atlantic Railroad for fixing the tracks crossing the road. The road leads to Nason's campground. He had asked the railroad to repair the crossing because campers had complained they appeared to be very loose. SL&A then billed Nason for $1,500. He questioned whether the road might be owned by the town. If that could be proven, the railroad had told him, they would refund his money. Town Manager Carol Whitman told selectmen she found records indicating that in 1975 townspeople voted to make the road a town road. But, she said, the railroad officials then told her they had no record of such a transaction, and she was unable to find a record of it at the Registry of Deeds. Whitman planned to do further research on the issue.

Special Town Meeting Tuesday

WOODSTOCK—A special Town Meeting is scheduled for Sept. 5 at 6:30 p.m. at the Town Office. Voters will consider whether to transfer approximately $7,500 in funds to the Tarring Account to pay for road work. Woodstock ran out of paving mix to tar two roads in town because of an erroneous estimate.

Toxic spill on Route 119

PARIS—Six people had to evacuate their homes on Route 119 in Paris Friday when a tractor-trailer overturned and released a hazardous formaldehyde-based resin. The truck was carrying 20 tons of the resin from Quebec to Pioneer Plastics in Auburn when its wheels hit a sandy shoulder, struck a guardrail and overturned. About 1,700 gallons were spilled. The driver suffered cuts and bruises in the accident.

Adult Ed course guide available

BETHEL—The SAD44 Adult Education fall course guide was mailed to district postal patrons last week. Additional copies are available at the Adult Education office at Telstar High School. Most of the courses begin during the week of Sept. 18. The University of Maine classes at Telstar or over the Internet get underway the week of Sept. 5. Individuals may register for ITV classes through Sept. 15 and make up missed classes by watching tapes. For information call 824-2780.

Wight's renomination put off

AUGUSTA—Gov. Angus King has withdrawn his proposal to reappoint the head of the state panel that serves as planning board for Maine's unorganized territory, but indicated he plans to put forth his candidate for legislative review again. On the eve of a legislative confirmation hearing, King wrote he was pulling the renomination of Steve Wight of Newry "at this time," because Wight, who is LURC chairman, would be unable to discuss with lawmakers a controversial matter pending before the regulatory panel. King noted that Wight is now serving as presiding officer in LURC's review of a Bureau of Parks and Lands' application for a boat launch at John's Bridge on the Allagash Waterway. King said Wight had been advised by the state attorney general that while the matter was pending "he would be constrained under LURC's rules from engaging in a full and open discussion," with the Legislature's Committee on Agriculture, Conservation and Forestry. The BPL has applied for permission to construct a parking lot, road and trail to let people launch canoes at John's Bridge, a thoroughfare near the southern end of the waterway. In its initial review of the project, LURC effectively gave a preliminary recommendation to its staff to draw up a denial. A final decision is still to come. LURC is scheduled to meet next month.

Misspelled memorial to be fixed

RUMFORD—A spelling mistake on the recently-dedicated memorial to Edmund S. Muskie will be fixed in the coming weeks. The second "i" is missing from the word "presidential," on a panel that describes Muskie's achievements.

More timber used for lumber

AUGUSTA—State reports indicate that more of the trees being cut down in Maine are being used for lumber rather than pulp, an emerging trend that means Maine timber is being used for a higher value, forestry officials said. State data compiled from paper and saw mills in every county show a steady move toward a higher quality use for Maine timber, Maine Forest Service director Thomas Doak said. "There is less wood going directly from the woods to the pulp mill, which means we are really getting the full value out of the wood we are cutting," he said. For example, the amount of pulpwood processed by mills in Androscoggin, Franklin and Oxford counties was down by 20,140 cords from 1998 to 1999, while saw logs were up by 30,692. One reason for the shift is improved saw mill technology that allows wood that would have been used for pulp to be used for lumber, Doak said.

Almanac predicts mild winter

LEWISTON—The publishers of the Farmers' Almanac, using a formula known to only two people, predict another moderate winter as a follow-up to last year's warmest winter on record. "The winter of 2000-2001 should get off to a late start and turn out to be milder than average, even less severe than this last one," forecaster Caleb Weatherbee writes in the almanac that hits newsstands Tuesday. Editor Peter Geiger admitted that last year's prediction of a stormy November and December to be capped by more than a foot of snow at year's end in the Midwest and Northeast was way off the mark. There actually was a dearth of snow. The National Weather Service contends weather can't be predicted with any certainty so far in advance. But the almanac says its long-term predictions are right about 80 percent of the time. For the record, Weatherbee predicts a wet fall to be followed by two big December snowstorms. More snow is predicted, but overall the season will be mild.

Big Brothers, Sisters offered funds

AUBURN—The Big Brothers and Big Sisters program of Oxford and Androscoggin counties will receive $70,000 to expand its school program—if it can raise a matching sum by next May. The funds, provided by Big Brothers and Big Sisters of America, would provide training, screening and program promotion, and possibly to grow into another county.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Biker: Don't bother with test

At 1:15 a.m. on Aug. 26 a caller reported a motorcycle was laid down in the ditch on the North Road. On arrival, the officer observed the bike in the ditch and a male subject walking near it. The subject said a deer ran out in front of him and he lost control of the bike. The subject appeared intoxicated, and the officer requested he perform field sobriety tests. The subject refused, saying he "had him anyways." A license check showed the subject had a habitual offender status. Roger Smith was arrested and taken to the Police Department, where he was given a breath test. He was then taken to the Oxford County Jail.

Friday, Aug. 25

At 10:10 p.m. police stopped a vehicle on Route 2 for an inadequate plate light. A license check showed a revoked status. Isaiah J. McCartney, 26, of East Falmouth, Mass., was issued a summons for operating without a license.

At 10:18 p.m. police received a report that an antique "hot rod" was squealing tires and operating erratically in the Telstar parking lot. Police observed a car matching the description on Route 26. The officer stopped the vehicle and questioned the driver, who said he had squealed his tires in the parking lot and on Route 26 when he was leaving. Justin Wight was issued a summons for unnecessary noise.

At 11:48 p.m. a subject was observed traveling at a high rate of speed and failing to stop at two stop signs. He was known to be under suspension and out on bail. When stopped, he was also showing signs of intoxication, and was given several field sobriety tests. Chad A. Bean, 18, of Bethel was arrested for OAS, OUI and violations of conditions of release. Alcohol was also found in the vehicle and confiscated. He was taken to the Oxford County Jail.

Sunday, Aug. 26

At 10 p.m. a subject was stopped on the Parkway for a defective tail light. The officer observed containers of alcohol in the car. They were confiscated and Lawrence J. Ward, 19, of Bethel was issued a summons and released.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

said, "Let's go ahead and look at a long-term solution," according to Rosberg.

"Major renovation would likely require a bond issue," he said. Realizing that, the committee decided to consider whether other facilities might also require major work or changes, "we see if it makes sense to do it all at once," said Rosberg.

The district then hired architects Jim Reuter and Noel Smith, at a cost of $5,400, to draw up the possible plans for Ethel Bisbee and the other facilities.

Ethel Bisbee/central office plan

Converting EBS to the superintendent's office would cost approximately $330,000, according to the architects' estimate. Part of the building could still be used for adult education.

Referring to the current location of the superintendent's office at Telstar, Reuter said, "It's very unusual for a district's central office to be in one of the schools."

A somewhat cheaper proposal than renovation, said officials, would be to simply tear down Ethel Bisbee and build a new central office, at an estimated cost of $280,000. That option, however, would not include adult education space.

In either case, moving the central office out of Telstar would free up that space for use as headquarters for the adult education program, which is currently housed in a small space at Telstar. Renovating the current central office would cost approximately $100,000.

Bus garage

The district's bus garage could also move to Telstar. It is currently located next to the railroad crossing on Route 26 in Bethel. The estimated cost to build a new garage at Telstar is $224,000.

The current garage, built in the 1940s, is now too small to comfortably accommodate today's large buses, district officials said.

There are two bays in the building. When a large bus is backed into one of them, it hits the heating ducts on the ceiling, and cannot be jackeded up for work.

In addition, when an 84-passenger bus is backed out of a bay, the rear of the bus is almost on Route 26 while the driver is still in the doorway of the bay.

Moving the bays to another side of the building would cost about $40,000, Rosberg said.

There are also concerns about the possible presence of hazardous materials underground, and the garage's location in a floodplain. It was used as a commercial car garage through the 1960s.

Telstar addition

Also up for discussion is the possibility of building a three-classroom addition at Telstar, for use by the middle school sixth grade.

TMS currently utilizes two portable classrooms adjacent to the building. "We just don't have any space," assistant principal Sally Hannon told committee members.

Included as well in the proposal is the conversion of the current Telstar lecture hall to the middle school main office. Because teaching styles have moved away from the lecture format, the hall has seen little use in recent years, the officials said.

If the hall was converted, the current TMS office would revert back to its former use as the high school guidance office.

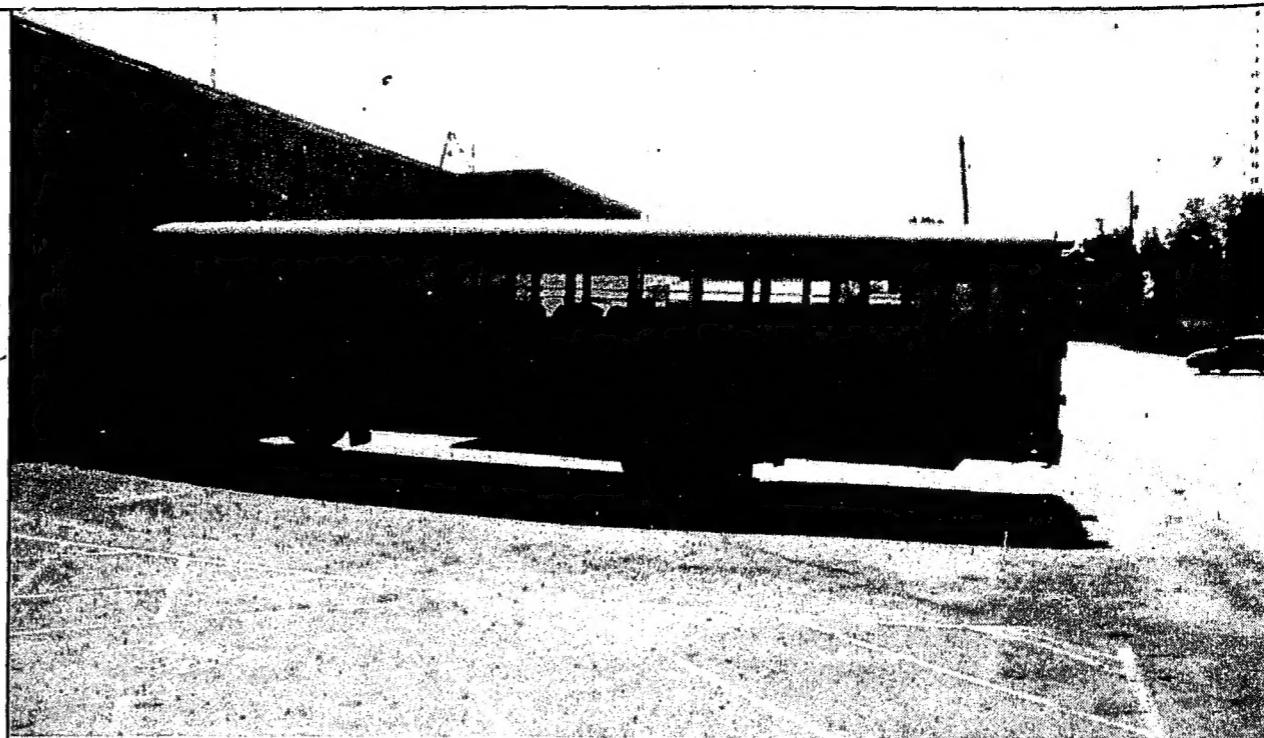

The price tag for all the middle/high school changes is estimated at $452,000, Rosberg said.

Not included in that price is yet another option: constructing a second gymnasium behind the current gym, at a cost of $790,000. The new gym would relieve pressure for sports practice space around the district.

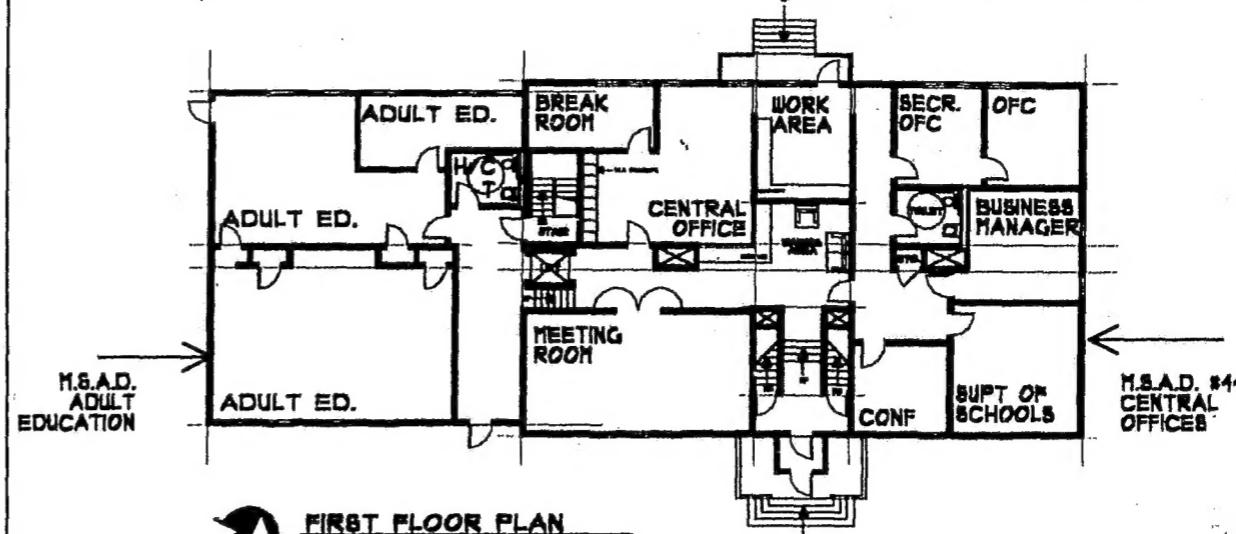

The gym proposal, said Rosberg, came out of discussions between the middle school staff and the architects. He does not personally support the idea.

"I would not advocate additional gym space," he told the committee.

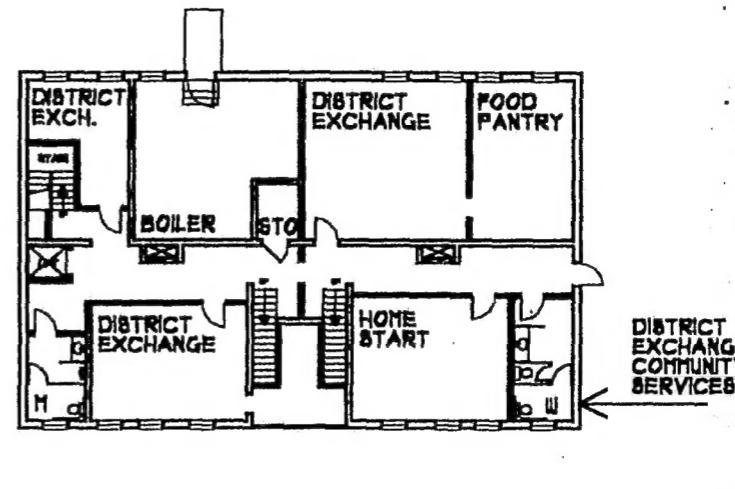

The Facilities Committee will discuss the options further at upcoming meetings. Rosberg speculated it would be four to six months before any action would be taken on the plans.

fixing buses on an outdoor concrete pad behind Telstar.

But the step up was not high enough. In 1987, floodwaters came again to the garage site. Rice said he remembers taking out the motors from the garage's furnace, and putting things up on high shelves.

A faint water line is still visible about three feet up the wall in the garage's offices.

Rice doesn't relish the prospect of trying to deal with another flood, especially if the garage is renovated. With items such as computers and a copier, he said,

"There's a lot more to move now."

SAD44 business manager Bruce Powell shares some of Rice's concerns. With the development in the area, he said, "we're definitely the low spot."

A large quantity of materials stored in the garage would be in jeopardy in the event of flooding, he said.

The flat roof of the building also needs constant repair, said Powell. Given the choice between moving the bays and living with the current setup, he said, he would choose the latter.

"I'd be very reluctant to put more money into the facility," he said.

Jack and Lucy Nordahl were at Mooselookmeguntic Lake for a day recently. They went to the coast on Aug. 19, forgetting about the motor home convention at Brunswick Naval Air Station.

Sherri Rose has completed radiation treatment for breast cancer now and is doing very well. She will be taking a special medicine for five years that should stop any cancer from coming back.

Charlene Haines hopes to be home this week from St. Mary's, where she had her left carotid artery cleared out.

Jerry Bernier will be going back to school after Labor Day.

I guess we are now having our summer. The end of last week and the start of this week have been marvelous, just marvelous.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

This part is continued from last week about the Greenwood City fire.

"Fire broke out at noon in the dwelling at the north end of the village owned by Mr. Emmons. The Mrs. had built a fire to prepare dinner. This is supposed to have set the chimney on fire and the roof caught from sparks. It went to the barn and then to a large house occupied by Amos Stevens, Mr. Berry and hence to the store occupied by Messers Bennett and Kendall. All the above buildings were owned by Mrs. Stevens and Kitteridge. The whole business of destruction took but an hour. Strong winds set fires in the woods two miles away."

One morning recently I noticed the little tents that were spread on the lawn. These of course are the works of spiders. I recall someone yesterday saying, "Going to be a good day, the spiders have hung their sheets out to dry. The sun struck them, but never heard it put them back.

I get much fun from feeders as different birds I try to keep the feeders that the small, as we birds may eat. Each adds a different sound at a different time of year. Not interesting.

Andover

by Joan Stinson Carney

The East Andover Historical Society Building, better known as the Old School House, has a beautiful new sign. Donated by Violet Swain and designed by Eric Designs, it is a nice addition to the building. That school, as you know, has some wonderful and not so wonderful memories for me and a lot of other people from East Andover.

Perhaps the woman who has the most memories of the school is Violet Swain. When she started teaching in 1938, she was interviewed for the position by the then superintendent of schools, who shall remain nameless. One of the questions she was asked was, "Are you Catholic? Because if you are I can't hire you, there are no Catholics in Andover." Lucky for us she is a Protestant, and so got the job.

She taught until 1942 — two sessions a day, seven different grades, and some of the pupils were bigger than she was. Over the years she has been involved with many activities that the building has been used for, Sunday School, Boy and Girl Scouts, and in 1958, when the school was finally closed, she and her husband, Robert, bought the building, and in 1991 deeded it to the Historical Society. Without people like Violet a lot of Andover's history would be lost forever.

There is another historical mystery in our town that needs to be solved. Who owns the Andover Hook and Ladder Building, and where are the deeds? The building is rapidly deteriorating and the roof needs to be fixed. There is a generous person who will donate the money to repair the building, with the stipulation that it will be turned over to the Andover Historical Society. The society can really use this building, and it would be a shame on all of us if it's allowed to fall into ruin. We have traced the deeds back to about 1908. If you have any information about this, you can call the Andover Town Office at 392-3302. Please help us restore this historical part of our life and make it better.

Stephanie Percival was kind enough to send me the results of the Fly Casting contests held on Olde Home Days. They are: Girls 12 and Under: first, Samantha Blood; second, Taryn Farrington; third, Tiffany Gallant. Boys 12 and Under: first, Jake Warren; second, Orry Gelinis; third, Brandon Warren. Girls Teens: Katie Averill. Boys Teens: first, Brian Knowles; second, Matt Newell; third, Dana McKeen. Women over 18: first, Angel Brown; second, Lorraine Milligan; third, Emily Clark. Men 18 and Over: first, Peter Miserochi; second, Brian Milligan; third, Adam Newell. Longest Cast: Brian Gross.

The Town of Andover wishes to thank Richard Pelletier for his donation of loan to fill in the hole around the Civil War Monument. It was a generous thing to do, Richard. Thank you.

Get ready — the tax bills will be appearing in your mailboxes soon. Along with your bill will be a new sticker for use at the Transfer Station. They will be green and white, and hopefully they won't fade the way the present ones did. Please put them on the vehicle you use to do your dump runs.

This weekend, I did a new thing for me. I made zucchini relish. When I was a member of the 4-H Club, a long, long time ago, I canned vegetables, and even won a blue ribbon for my carrots, but making relish was an entirely new experience. This started me thinking about all the things my mother used to do that I and my siblings just took for granted. Wash Day was one of them. Picture this, if you can. There were eight of us, so that was a washing for 10 people, and here is how she had to do it.

Step one: fill a huge tub with water and put it on the wood stove to heat. Step two: fill another tub with cold water. Sort clothes, sheets, pillowcases, and white underwear first, towels and washcloths and other white garments second, dark clothes third. When the first tub of water was hot, pour it into the washing machine, heat the other tub of water and add bleach. Fill the first tub with cold water again. Now you are ready to begin washing. Add soap to the water in the machine, add clothes, turn on the machine and let it wash around until the clothes are clean. Turn off the machine and run them through the wringer, by hand mind you, then put the white ones into the tub of bleach water, swish them around, wring them out again, then put them into the tub of cold water,

TO ATTEND NATIONAL YOUTH LEADERSHIP FORUM

Michael Sabin, son of Barb and Roger Sabin of Andover and grandson of Bill and Muriel Lever of Auburn and Estelle Sabin of West Paris, has been selected to attend the National Youth Leadership Forum on Defense, Intelligence and Diplomacy in Washington, D.C. in February 2001. Mike was nominated to attend the forum by Charlie Raymond, his teacher and adviser at Telstar High School and was then selected by the forum committee as one of the 350 students nationwide. The juniors and seniors will be welcomed at some of the country's most prominent policy centers and military facilities including: the CIA, the US Naval Academy at Annapolis, the War Gaming and Simulation Center at the National Defense University, the Pentagon, and more.

swish them around, then wring them out again. Repeat until all the clothes are clean. If you had a really dirty piece of clothing, you had to do an extra step. Scrub it on the washboard — that was always fun. A lot of knuckles got scrubbed along with the clothes.

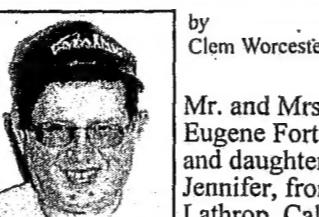

In the meantime, hang the clean, wet clothes on the lines outdoors. In the summer I can follow the logic of this hanging-out process, but to this day I can't imagine why we did it in the winter. We would hang them out, they would freeze on the line, we would then bring them in and hang them on the clothes rack to dry. Every week we did this, sometimes twice a week; why didn't we just not do the freezing process?

Some women had another problem that they had to be aware of at all times, the wringer. Being more physically endowed than others, they had to make sure that they didn't give themselves an unscheduled mammogram. This is really a true story, and it happened more than once. I also remember the time one of my brothers got his fingers caught in the wringer. My mother very calmly reversed the wringer and out came his fingers, sore but still attached. Then my mother, still very calm, had a nervous breakdown.

The next time you moan at the thought of having to wash a load of clothes in your automatic washer and dry them in your nice automatic dryer, think of the process my mother and other mothers like her did time after time for years, and be really grateful. Oh yes, there was always an unspoken unacknowledged race to see who would get the first wash on the line on Monday morning. If you were the first, you won some sort of unspoken, unacknowledged prize.

The word of the week is gravid. I am a very gravid person, and am trying to do something about it. It's really not very nice to be gravid unless you are an elephant or a Sumo wrestler. See ya.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Fortin and daughter, Jennifer, from Lathrop, Calif., have been visiting Eugene's parents, Bob and Elsie Fortin and his sister, Darlene Fortin.

Bessie Ettl had surgery at Central Maine Medical Center on Monday, Aug. 14. Bess is now recovering at home and reported to be doing well.

Brenda S. Grady, Clayton, Calif., was in the area to attend the 35th graduation reunion of the Class of 1965 from Stephens High School. While here she visited with her brother, Warren Stearns, and her sisters, Bess Ettl and Barbara Gross.

Malcolm and Barbara Gross recently traveled to Lake Carmi in Vermont, for a family reunion. Most of their children and their families also went to Vermont to attend.

Dale Lapham is building a woods road across his property along Main Street. The road is in an area known as the Alpha Powers' Lot.

Donna and Clem Worcester were on the road Saturday, Aug. 19, to Gouldsboro to attend a picnic put on by Ernest Rice, grand chancellor, Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Maine. Following good food, those attending had a chance to put the grand chancellor into a dunk tank for $1 a chance. He was dunked about 20 times. An auction took place under the direction of Clyde Barker, grand treasurer. After the picnic, Donna and Clem traveled to Columbia and then returned home by way of the Airline.

Jeff Watts recently returned home from the Chicago Trade Show, where he was promoting the Maine Mouse-ah. The Maine Mouse-ah is a mousetrap that was developed in Hanover. Jeff and the mousetrap will be featured on the Discovery Channel program, "Home Matters Show" at 11 a.m. on Oct. 2.

A special Town Meeting took place at the Hanover Town House on Tuesday, Aug. 22. Elected moderator was Wendy Hanscom of Newry. Most of the meeting concerned the school budget, which showed an increase in the numbers of children attending MSAD43, MSAD44, and Gould Academy. Also voted on was the budget and local costs for Region 9 School of Applied Technology and Adult Education. The 18 voters attending voted to have the Hanover/Rumford and Hanover/Newry town lines maintained. The citizens present also voted to accept amendments to State Guidelines for Shore Land Zoning and to change portions of the town from Resource Protection to Limited Residential.

Following the Special Town Meeting, the Hanover selectpersons held their monthly meeting. Chairman Bruce Powell, Brenda Gross, and Scott Gould heard reports from the town clerk and code enforcement officer. They received updates on shore land concerns, boat landing progress and work progress on the new post office. The board decided to re-bid the renovations work for the new town office by breaking the work into different bid offers. They also heard citizen complaints about water drainage problems along the Howard Pond Road. The next selectmen's meeting is scheduled for Sept. 26, at the Town House.

Several homes in Hanover have been broken into during the past several weeks. In one instance, the owner had been away less than two hours and returned to find the house ransacked and documents missing. The perpetrator had entered the building through a cellar window. A State Police dog followed tracks through the woods to a nearby highway, where the individuals apparently left in an automobile. Police continue to investigate. Anyone with information about the breaks or if suspicious activity is observed, it is suggested that they call the Oxford County Sheriff's office.

The Howard Pond Campers' Association had its annual dinner and meeting on Saturday, Aug. 19, at the Rumford Point Church. The officers elected for the next year are: Pam Puffa, president; Pat Monroe, vice president; Rita Aromas, secretary; and Dottie Adams, treasurer. Everyone had a good time and not once did anyone mention roosters.

The Hanover Planning Board met Thursday, Aug. 24, at the Town House. They discussed the permitting process to convert the Ferry Road House into the town office. The next meeting is scheduled for Sept. 14.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

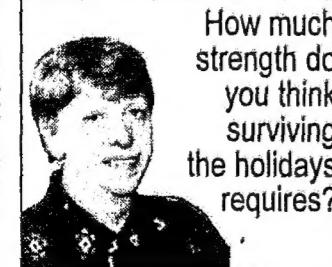

Someone, a man of course, said something to me the other day about women being the weaker sex. I take offense at that. Fairer sex I can go along with. Weaker sex; well that all depends on how he meant it.

If he was referring to brute strength, I suppose I'd have to say he's right. Most women can't go out and lift up the front end of the family car, though it has been known to happen when a mother's child has been pinned under a front tire. Actually, I don't know of any men that can lift up the front end of the family car either.

I will agree that men can pick up more weight than most women, but seldom can they pull as much weight as any woman.

I hear you guys grumbling and probably making obscene gestures, but let me make my point before you tar and feather me.

How much strength do you think surviving the holidays requires?

Take an average day in an average American family. Mom gets up, gets the kids up, makes breakfast, makes lunches, gets the kids ready for school or babysitter, tidies up the morning dishes, goes to work, comes home, sees to it that the kids are doing homework, changes their clothes and are not fighting. Then she cooks supper, does the dishes, tidies the kitchen, does the laundry, makes sure the kids take a bath, puts them to bed and reads them a story if so needed. Then she lays out the clothes for the next day some of which may require mending or ironing and then she goes to bed. Maybe she goes right to sleep, maybe not. Her day is done.

Dad gets up, eats breakfast, reads the sports section of the paper and goes to work. Then he comes home, reads the rest of the paper, eats supper, watches television, goes to bed and decides if Mom will go right to sleep or not. His day is done.

Okay guys, I hear you, you're not convinced. Fine. Let's talk about childbirth. We all know it's not physically possible for men to give birth and that's probably a good thing because I don't believe they have the strength to deal with it. I'm sure the men are, saying that's not fair since it can never be proven. I have an idea. Men could strap a box of macaroni and a pint of water to their abdomens for about three or four months. During this time they should be taking cod liver oil or something that would make them feel nauseous most of the time and at the same time drinking a great deal of fluid (not beer) so they would have to go to the bathroom very frequently. No smoking, no alcohol, watch the diet, smile pretty.

After the third or fourth month change the macaroni and pint of water to a five-pound bag of flour and a gallon of water. Carry this around 24 hours a day for three more months. No fair cheating and removing at bedtime.

On the seventh month another gallon of water should be added to the abdomen and a five-pound bag of sugar to the lower back. During this whole period of time they have to continue working plus do the cooking, cleaning and taking care of one or two children. Keep smiling.

Finally on the ninth month they can unstrap the flour and water and pass a five-pound bowling ball through their bowels. After doing all of this a man might have a remote idea of what it is like to go through pregnancy and give birth. He will not, however, have experienced swelling ankles and hands, loss of appetite, cravings, wild mood swings, and varicose veins, hemorrhoids, dryness of skin and hair, stretch marks, little feet kicking the ribs or many hours of labor. It will not be a complete experience, but close enough for arguments sake.

How much strength do you think surviving the holidays requires? All right, I hear you. You fix the car and stop the leaky faucet's, but it just doesn't stack up in terms of strength.

I could go on and on, but I think I have made my point.

The way I see it the battle of the sexes will never be resolved and with that in mind, I pray to God to grant me the strength to go on being the weaker sex.

On Saturday, Aug. 26, there was a mass casualty drill at Pleasant Pond, Sumner. This exercise began at 9:15 a.m. with the toning of Tri-Town and Pace Ambulance, Buckfield Rescue, West Paris, Sumner and Hartford fire departments, Life Flight (helicopter service) and Inland Fisheries and Wildlife Service. This mini M.C.I. drill exercise was put on by Tri-Town Rescue of West Paris.

The officers for this are incident commander, Norm St. Pierre, instructor; triage officer, Joan Wheeldon, instructor; safety officer, Viola Whitman, fire department; command, Mike Akers, assistant fire chief, West Paris Fire Department and the staging officer, Ruth Howe.

The rescue scenario was for a boating accident on Pleasant Pond. A motorboat collided with a canoe, sending its two occupants, a boy and a girl, both 11 years old, into the water. The driver of the boat was ejected as the boat then hits the wharf, sustaining minor injuries. He was about 50 years old. There was an older female swimmer between 40 and 50 years old who was in trouble and had to be rescued.

As the scenario unfolded, the officers for this are incident

safety person, Viola Whitman, logged in every person that stopped by as well as when they left, for their accountability. Viola also maintained general scene safety and assigned several people to the task of traffic control. The fire fighters also helped control traffic and created a safe landing zone for the Life Flight helicopter up on Tuell Hill Road, exactly .05 of a mile from the water accident scene. West Paris Fire Department responded with a fire rescue boat to help with the extraction of the victims. Tri-Town, Pace and Buckfield rescue teams responded to treat the patients.

Many thanks to all who responded to make this training drill a huge success. You never know when you or some member of your family might need these same services.

This whole reenactment was covered by Channel 6 and all the area newspapers.

by Lorraine Larson

Lorraine and Don (Andy) Larson were in Lewiston on Monday and had lunch with Fritz and Norma Peterson. Norma has been having an episode of Meniere's disease and was very dizzy, one thing I can certainly empathize with. (My English teacher would blanch at that sentence). One thing with which I can empathize, sorry Mr. T."

Anyhow, Andy got the food on the table and I did the dishes, so everything worked out fine. The last time Norma had an episode she ended up in the hospital, but this time she had medicine to take from the beginning, so hopefully it won't come to that.

And speaking of hospitals, Debbie Brown called me after I got home and said her mother-in-law, Bea Brown, underwent emergency surgery for spleen removal. Well, I've been there, too, done that, too, so I've got an idea of what she's going through. Our thoughts and prayers are with her and Norma, too, of course.

Grace Smith is at the Veterans' Home in South Paris and would love cards and visits.

What a terrible thing all those fires out West are, not only for all the people but for the animals, too. And, of course, the firefighters must be getting mighty tired and discouraged. Wish we could ship them some of our rain. I think we've had a bit more than our quota.

One never knows with animals what is going to happen next. For several days, our little gray cat, Tizzy, had been drooling, so we took her to the vet's and she had some redness around her teeth so he gave her an antibiotic. But several days later nothing had improved so back she went. This time he took her out back so he could get a better look and when he brought her back he announced, "Guess what, Tizzy has a tumor under her tongue." He said it was a fairly large one. Anyhow, he took it out a couple days later and found it was even deeper than he expected, so he couldn't get it all without damaging her tongue. The biopsy will take a week, so we should know more then about the prognosis.

This time it was "Two Moose on the Loose" as Gerry Shimamura and I toured some of the back roads of Norway on Thursday. Fun. We even got to see what looked to be elk on one farm.

Ken and Barbara Wakefield have been busy this past month enjoying company from Michigan, First, Scot Coolidge and friend Chris from Hastings, Mich. were here for five days. Then came longtime friends from St. Helen, Al and Delores Harrison, who visited for nine days. Al and Ken were good buddies in the Navy back in the '50s in Florida and have since kept in touch and gone on several trips together, including Hawaii and two trips to Branson, Mo.

Then last week, Madelyn Murphy, Pam Miller, Jenn Miller and friend Anna spent seven days with the Wakefields and visited other relatives and friends in the area. On the 16th and 17th, they were joined by Richard and Jannette Pratt from Orlando, Fla. on a trip to the Pittston Farm in Rockwood to visit relatives there. It is a great place to go relax and enjoy the natural beauty of the Moosehead wilderness, 20 miles back on a dirt road, and what a buffet with such good food. The day they left there, 72 reservations were already made for the dinner buffet. Lots of snow travelers go there during the winter, as the trails are wide and groomed regularly. During hunting season, the farm is always booked full with reservations and almost everyone goes home with moose and deer. Pittston Farm is an old Boy Scout camp, which Ken Twitchell has made into a four-season getaway. It is also on the list of Preservation Buildings, as is our local Greenwood Town Hall.

Adams and Rebecca Gicker, who were married Aug. 19 at the home of Howard and Barbara Adams. A reception followed on the lawn, with many relatives and friends present to honor the happy couple. Attendants were Polly Gicker as bridesmaid, Valarie Barker as matron of honor and Bethany Rogers as bridesmaid. Jesse's attendants were Travis Fox as best man and Corey Jones and Mert Blood, Mr. and Mrs. Adams have gone to the Pocono Mountains for three days and will tour the Coast of Maine. Again, congratulations Jesse and Becky. May you have a long and happy life together.

On a sad note, we were sorry to learn of the death of our daughter-in-law's mother, Lila Farrington, on Aug. 12 at the Rumford Community Home. Funeral services were held on Monday, Aug. 14, at Meader & Son Funeral Home, Rumford, with Pastor Lloyd Waterhouse officiating. Interment was at Woodlawn Cemetery, Andover. Donations in her memory may be made to the Scholarship Fund of East Andover Community, c/o Mrs. Violet Swain, P.O. Box 7, East Andover, ME 04226. Lila was a good wife, mother, grandmother and friend and was much loved by everyone who knew her.

Welcome to
Sarah and Kerry Bryant, who just moved here recently.

Welcome to a new shop opening on Main Street, Earth and Fire Pottery. The sign says "opening soon."

Sympathy is extended to the family of Winola Billings.

Mallard Mart will be the name of Whitman's Market. You'll soon see a new sign there.

Congratulations to Bob and Phyllis Coolidge, whose daughter LeeAnn is having a third child.

Kristen Cushman Inman and her husband, Hal, attended the reunion of the Telstar Class of 1990 at Stony Brook Campground in Hanover. Steve's General Store in Oxford catered it, and the food was fabulous. Kristen has just opened her own pediatric occupational therapy practice in Portland.

One local Willie Nelson fan attended the outdoor concert in Gilford, N.H. this past weekend. Even though it drizzled all day, Willie kept singing for almost two hours.

Dot Cushman's sister, Joyce Howe Wright, has been installed as the supreme chief of the Pythian Sisters.

The North Pond Sailing Association held their annual potluck dinner at the home of Henry and Pat Stewart.

Jeanine and Gary Wing just returned from Wichita, Kan. after visiting their son, Troy, his wife, Lorie, and new baby, Travis. Troy was promoted to captain in the U.S. Air Force. Troy is a KC-135 tanker pilot based at McConnell Air Force Base. He will soon be attending aircraft commander school in Oklahoma.

The Historical Society has a fine collection of glass and china. Both are important types of antiques and we are fortunate to have them. The society has well-balanced exhibits now. Curator Larry Billings says he is very satisfied with the museum. The society promotes awareness of the heritage and traditions of New England. They enrich all our lives.

Curator Larry Billings has given a primitive painting of a farm, a Picasso print, a small sign and a very good book on sawmills to the society. Beth Hoover donated a ledger and Louise Twitchell donated some clippings. Annelita Burnham and Ruth Cox watched the museum recently. Mini carnations from Silver Creations decorated the building. At the next meeting, on Sept. 9, Peter Andrews will be the speaker.

Patch the Pirate Club meets each Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m., same time as prayer meeting, at the Baptist Church. Thursday at 6 p.m. is visitation. From the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

All those attending the Bethel Historical Society's 35th annual meeting on Sept. 7 will hear guest speaker, retired UMF professor Jay Hoar discuss some of the boys under sixteen who fought in the Civil War. Professor Hoar published a book, "Callow, Brave, and True: A Gospel of Civil War Youth," last year. He will speak about the youths who fought on both the Confederate and Union sides of the War. His talk will include some of the case histories of particular boys and why they were involved in such a bloody event. Professor Hoar's lecture is free and open to anyone interested. It will follow the annual meeting, which begins at 7:30 p.m.

From the

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Planning for Harvest and Chowdah Fest, which is Saturday, Sept. 23, is ongoing. It's not too late to offer ideas. Call Al Cressy at 824-0508, or Emily Beers and Tricia Swain at the chamber office, 824-2282 with your suggestions. Activities so far include the following:

chowder contest, of course, arts and crafts fair (still space), food court, PTA pancake breakfast, mill tours, New England baked bean and frank supper, Mac McHale and the Old Time Radio Gang with guest, junior fiddler champion, Erica Brown, also local pianist, Rob Robbins on stage taking requests, youth activities including origami and a puppet show, and this year fireworks will top off the day.

Rosalie Holliday is coordinating the "Country Christmas in Bethel" brochure. This includes activities from Thanksgiving to Christmas. The holidays seem a long way off, but our goal is to have this brochure updated by the end of September. It would make her job easier if you responded before Sept. 8 with the events you would like to have listed in this publication. We are also seeking $40 sponsors to help us fund 10,000 copies being printed and distributed.

Also, please respond to the annual guidebook, "Experience Bethel," mailing that you just received by Sept. 8.

"Business After Hours" for September is at Serenity Corners, 177 Main Street, Bethel on Tuesday, Sept. 12 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. (Please note hours.)

Welcome to our newest member, Alpine Meadow House. Owners Darren and Jill Moyer have a two-bedroom, one-and-a-half-bath house to rent on the Sunday River Road.
